2 OSR Escapers Bind, Rob 3 In Farm Family

Couple, Daughter Tied Up

Fugitives Flee With $14

Two OSR escapers bound and robbed an elderly northern Richland county couple and their daughter of $14 and their car early last night and fled in the darkness.

The robbery victims, unharmed except for minor cuts from the twine, were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hollenbaugh, both past 70, and their daughter, Mary, 48.

The fugitives, believed to have fled the OSR Friday, entered the Hollenbaugh home off State Route 178 north of Ganges about 6:45 p. m., Sunday.

One of the escapers said: "This is a stick-up. Do what we say and you won't get hurt. We want your car and your money."

The Hollenbaughs said the men apparently were unarmed, but one of them kept his hand in his pocket as if holding a gun. The other clutched a clawhammer in one hand, threatening the Hollenbaughs with it.

One of the escapers drew some heavy twine from his pocket and tied the three members of the family to wooden chairs around the kitchen table, deputy sheriff said.

COMPLAINS OF PAIN

Mrs. Hollenbaugh, 71 suffers from arthritis, and complained that the cords hurt her. The youth who stood guard said: "Let's leave her alone."

"What if she untied the others?" the other replied, and went on with the tying.

One of the youths then ransacked the cupboard and found $14 in cash in two pocketbooks. He went through others rooms but took nothing else in the house, the Hollenbaughs said.

After exchanging the flashlight they had been carrying for a better one in the Hollenbaugh cupboard, the pair demanded the keys to Miss Hollenbaugh's 1937 Ford two-door sedan, which was parked at the side of the farm house. Hollenbaugh unwittingly handed over the wrong keys.

Before they left the escapers took two pairs of Hollenbaugh's trousers, one faded blue cotton, with a patch on the right knee, and the other a pair of blue serge, and a blue wool jacket.

When the men couldn't start the car, one went back into the house, untied Hollenbaugh and ordered "Start that car for us, or else . . ."

Hollenbaugh found the right key and started the motor. He didn't see a third man with the couple but he said " I heard noies outside the whole time they were tying us up. I figure there was someone else out there or

Nations Cut Trade Walls

WASHINGTON — (INS) — New reciprocal tariff agreements between the United States and 10 other nations were aimed today at crumbling barriers standing in the way of world trade.

The United States agreed to slash customs duties on goods whose import value last year was 212 million dollars. In addition, the U. S. froze present duties or guaranteed continued duty free imports on goods whose trade value last year was 38 million.

The complex agreement was negotiated at Annecy, France, at a four and one-half month meeting which was described as the "second most extensive" tariff-cutting parley ever held.

The United States gains about 250 million dollars in trade concessions.

Took Movie Title Too Literally

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. — (INS) — The parents of Tommy Puckett, a 13-year-old Cedar Rapids movie fan, probably will pick the shows he can see from now on.

Tommy returned home yesterday morning after his father, R. V. Puckett, reported him missing overnight.

He explained that he fell asleep in a movie theater and did not wake up until the building was locked. He stayed in the theater all night. Name of the movie: "The Big Sleep."

2 Sentenced To OSR, State Pen

Reformatory Term Handed Burglar

Charles Elmer Whited, 24, Cleveland, who was captured by police after a midnight roof-top chase Sept. 3, was sentenced to one to 15 years in the Ohio State reformatory today for breaking and entering the Kafer Flower shop, 41 North Mulberry street.

Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, also sentenced Otis Hill, 30, of 544 Lily street, to the Ohio State penitentiary for one to 20 years for auto theft. Both men had previous records.

Patrolman Albert D. O'Neil saw Whited in the flower shop. When the burglar saw the officer he threw a chair through a window and fled as the policeman fired at him. Finally O'Neil and Police Capt. Eugene Hartnett captured him on the roof of a nearby building.

Judge Kalbfleisch repeated his warning to burglars, robbers and auto thieves that they would get no probation in his court.

"These crimes are all voluntary and premeditated," he said.

Both men who were sentenced today formerly had pleaded innocent but withdrew their pleas and entered new ones of guilty.

The case of Eddie Moore, 59, Miller street, charged with shooting at a person, will be heard in common pleas court this afternoon. The hearing was originally set for Friday. If he changes his innocent plea to guilty today he probably will be sentenced this afternoon.

Moore was arrested by police on the night Solomon Moore, 40, of 136½ North Adams street was killed by a police bullet. The Moores had been arguing over 38 cents. Eddie Moore has no previous record.

Arlos Walker, 26, Bellville, charged with neglect to support a minor child, also will appear in court this afternoon.

The case against Michael Spino, 31, Cleveland, charged with involuntary manslaughter in the traffic death of Walter Lehman, 52, Shelby, will be heard Wednesday.

The cases against Roy Jacock, 23, of 261 North Main street, and David Wilcoxson, 37, 22½ East Sixth street, were continued until Oct. 25. They were charged with pocket picking.

Registration Deadline Near

Residents of Mansfield and Madison township have until 9 p. m. today to register for the November general election. The board of elections office in the courthouse will be open until 9 p. m. to late-comers.

Walter Underwood, deputy in the board office, said 153 persons registered Friday and 190 Saturday.

Required to register for voting eligibility are residents who have changed their addresses since the last general election; persons who have moved to the city since the last general election and those who will reach the age of 21 before the November election.

Post Killer Reward

ELYRIA — (AP) — Lorain county commissioners have posted a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Alan Feeley. Feeley was found with his throat cut in Lorain Sept. 17.

ROBBERY VICTIMS—J. E. Hollenbaugh, 75, a farmer near Ganges, holds up the rope with which he, his wife, right, 71, and daughter, Mary, 48, center, were tied last night when two OSR escapers robbed them of their 1937 model car and $14 in cash.

Two Million Idle, Feared

No Sign of Labor Accords

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — More labor walkouts may boost the nation's strike idle to two million this week.

There's no sign of peace in either the steel or coal strikes which have cut off paychecks to approximately one million.

Adding to the bleak picture is the threat aluminum and steel fabricating plants may join the 454,000 CIO United Steelworkers already on strike for free pensions and insurance.

The only sign of optimism comes from the fact that John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine workers plans to go back to the bargaining table with coal operators Wednesday. The government is prodding both sides to end the 22-day old walkout of 380,000 soft coal diggers.

There's also a possibility the government may try again to end the nine-day old steel strike. Cyrus Ching, director of the federal conciliation service, may summon steelworkers' president Philip Murray and industry leaders to Washington this week.

Murray spent the weekend writing speeches. He's going on a tour to give pep talks in steel centers.

Bomber Missing With Five Aboard

HILL FIELD, Utah — (UP) — Hill field air force base reported today that an airforce B-17 vanished in a driving rainstorm in a flight from Albuquerque, N. M., to Hill Field with five men aboard.

The big four-engined plane was due here at 3:18 a. m. (MST) today. Hill Field reported it lost radio contact with the huge plane at 3:04 a. m. over Salt Lake city.

City Will Set Up Truck Loading Zones

The city will set up from 12 to 15 truck loading and unloading areas in the business district, under the new traffic ordinance, Traffic Commissioner Frend Boals said today.

More flexibility in administering the improvements is provided in the new code, Boals explained. Signs will be installed on groups of three or four parking meters in the business area to facilitate the truck traffic and ban parking by motorists at specified hours, he said.

"Officers on the business district beats will locate and report the sites," Boals said. "This will stop the problem of double parking which has existed in the past when a truck wanted to unload. It will take quite a bit of education and cooperation on the part of the motorist and merchants but the patrolmen will take care of that."

In addition, more truck zones will be designated in the north end of Mansfield, Boals stated. "Traffic control has been neglected in this section, especially on North Main between Fifth and Sixth streets and on East Sixth street," he said.

These improvements will go into effect as soon as the signs are delivered, Boals added. They are expected to relieve the bottle necks in that area.

Second major improvement will be a "no left turn" rule at Bowman street and Park Avenue West.

"A recent survey shows only 15 percent of the cars on Bowman turn onto Park avenue west. "These cars, however, hold up almost all of the through traffic."

This regulation will go into effect in approximately two weeks.

MOVE LIGHTS

"We are also going to make a study of four different intersections and consider the possibility of moving two traffic lights," he added. "Nothing will be done, however, until the study has been made.

Intersections in question are Foster and East Second, Ashland road and East Fourth, Sturges and West First and Glessner and Wood.

The study will consider the advisability of moving the traffic light from Foster and East Second to Ashland road and East Fourth and one at Sturges and West First to Glessner and Wood.

Results of the study will be recommended to the service-safety director and city council.

"We have enough traffic lights in Mansfield already", Boals stated. "We don't want anymore. However, traffic movement changes over a period of years and we want to find out if traffic problems will be eased by moving these lights."

Ironton Gay On 100th Birthday

IRONTON — (AP) — A festive air pervaded this Ohio river city of 19,000 today as celebration of the 100th anniversary of Ironton's founding swung into high gear.

Factory whistles tooted sharp blasts at 8 a. m., church bells rang and sirens screamed, heralding the beginning of a week-long program of special events.

'Triangle' Case Draws National Attention

Ashland Kidnaping Suspect Faces Boston Court

Sylvia Benepe

Ashland county apparently will have to await its turn to prosecute the principals in a kidnaping case that has attracted national attention.

Fourteen-year-old Sylva Benepe, a hillbilly banjo player accused of assaulting her, and a woman said to be the banjo player's wife are held in a Boston jail pending grand jury action there.

Ashland county authorities have sought to have them returned to Ashland for prosecution. The trio fled Ashland last April shortly before the girl was to be called as a witness in an incest trial involving her father, John L. Benepe.

The girl was ordered held as a juvenile delinquent in Boston where the trio was captured several days ago.

Also arrested was Federick L. Horton, 25, the banjo player, and Darlene Peters, 23, who lived with Horton and reportedly bore him three children.

Horton was held in $5,000 bail on morals charges involving the woman and the girl.

A 17-year-old Boston youth, Paul Nadeau, was held in bail of $3,000. He was accused of abusing Sylvia.

Boston police said the Benepe girl tipped them off to Horton's whereabouts after he allegedly objected to her interest in the Nadeau youth.

Ashland authorities notified Boston police that Horton was wanted in Ashland on a kidnaping charge, and faces prosecution there on an old larceny and forgery charge.

Motorist Killed At Ashland

Car Crashes Into Railing

A Rochester, N. Y., motorist was injured fatally this morning at the Jerome Fork bridge on U. S. Route 42 near the waterworks at the eastern edge of Ashland. A panel truck he was driving skidded 138 feet into a guard rail, careened down it and bounced to the other side of the concrete bridge before overturning and blocking traffic for 30 minutes.

At least eight Ohioans were killed in week-end traffic mishaps, two of them by trains.

Walter C. Abernathy, 45, of Rochester, N. Y., died in Ashland Samaritan hospital at 8:18 a. m. of injuries in the bridge accident at 7:15 a. m., it was reported by M. F. Rickenbrod, Ashland county sheriff. Authorities believe the victim was asleep at the time of the crash. There were no witnesses and he failed to regain consciousness.

Efforts are being made to locate relatives of the victim as his driver's license was the only source of identification found. Dr. H. M. Gunn, Ashland county coroner, and Police Chief Harry Smith joined the sheriff in trying to locate relatives. The body is in the Denbow-Bear funeral home in Ashland pending arrangements.

Abernathy suffered a possible skull fracture, chest injury and multiple lacerations of the body, hospital attaches reported.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

George A. Williams, 40, of Zanesville, was killed last night when a Baltimore and Ohio freight train struck his car at a crossing in Zanesville.

Samuel Alfred West jr., 25, of Wilmington, was killed yesterday at Wilmington by a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train. A fireman on the train said he thought he saw someone sitting on the track, but he was unable to stop the train. Dr. C. E. Kinzel, coroner, ruled the death accidental.

At Cuyahoga Falls, Edward Miller, 72, was injured fatally Saturday when he was struck by an automobile.

In the same city, 4-year-old Nancy Freudeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Freudeman, was crushed to death under a truck last night.

Probe Strange Disappearance

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — A full-scale police search was on today for Jean Elizabeth Spangler, a statuesque film and television bit player who has been missing since last Friday.

The 27-year-old Actress-dancer's disappearance took an ominous turn yesterday when her ripped handbag was found 10 feet off the road near the entrance to Fern Dell in Griffith park.

The handle had been torn from the frame at one end and the bag had been looted of its cash. The actress was last seen Friday evening when she left home to go to work.

Showers To Chase Fall Heat

It was hot in Mansfield again today, but the weatherman said there will be a change to cooler tomorrow as effects of the western snowstorm are felt in Ohio.

Yesterday's high was 82 at 3 p. m., and the temperature already had reached 78 at 10:30 a. m. today after dropping to a low of 62 at 6:30 a. m.

The weather forecast for today is mostly sunny with highest temperatures about 85. Tonight will be fair, windy, and a little warmer with no rain until tomorrow when the mercury is expected to fall a few degrees after scattered showers.

But if Mansfield was hot yesterday, other parts of the state were even hotter. Yesterday's high marks in Ohio reached all the way up to 90 in Chesapeake, which, strangely enough, also recorded the state's low mark of 58.

Cleveland, Columbus, and Toledo all had highs of 86, while Cincinnati recorded a high of 84.

RECORDS FALL

More heat records for the date and for the season were expected to fall today with continuing hot weather.

While Ohio and the rest of the midwest is having freakish hot weather, other sections of the country are having equally freakish weather of other types.

At least three deaths were attributed to unseasonal heavy snowstorms in the west, and one person was reported killed in a tornado that struck in the Lincoln, Neb., area.

The snow which blanketed the Rocky Mountain region late last week, turned to sleet and drizzle although more snow was forecast in the high mountain area. The pilot of a C-46 which crashed near Cheyenne, Wyo., killing three persons, reported just before the accident that the sleet was causing his wings to ice.

At least four tornadoes added to the week end's freak weather map, but only one unidentified person was reported injured in Oklahoma.

The twisters, greatly localized, struck Kansas City, Mo.; an area just west of Hutchinson, Kan.; in the area near Lincoln, Neb., and in the vicinity of Woodward in northwest Oklahoma.

B-36 Rapped By Air Chief

Congressman Bares Statement

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A House Republican leader declared today that Air Force Secretary Symington told a congressional committee last year that the B-36 bomber, now under navy fire, was "obsolete."

He added that Symington advised the committee in May, 1948 that the air force was cancelling as many as it could of its contracts for purchases of the giant six-engined "intercontinental" plane.

Symington was quoted as saying the air force had decided to concentrate on the B-50, an ipmroved version of the B-29, instead of the B-36, although a final decision had not yet been made on the plane to be used to carry the atom bomb.

Rep. Taber of New York asserted in an interview with International News Service that Symington made these statements when he appeared before a closed-door meeting of the House Appropriations committee when Taber was chairman of the group.

Taber added that the air force did not embark again on its B-36 program until after the November 1948 election.

Embassy Deserts Regime

Government Flees Canton

PARIS —(UP)— The Chinese embassy announced today that its staff, except for the hospitalized ambassador and a new charge d'affaires, was switching its allegiance from the Chinese Nationalist government to the new communist regime.

A formal statement from the embassy said staff members were "awaiting instructions from the central popular government" recently proclaimed at Peiping under President Mao Tse-Tung.

George Mong, embassy counsellor, said that with two exceptions the entire embassy and consulate staff associated itself with the move. The exceptions were Ambassador Tsien Tai, in a hospital recovering from injuries suffered in a recent motor accident, and Tuan Moa-Lan, charge d'affaires who arrived recently from London.

The reported changeover by the embassy staff was the first move of its kind in a major diplomatic center since the communists proclaimed the establishment of the Chinese "people's republic."

NATIONALISTS FLEE TO CHUNGKING

HONG KONG — (UP) — The Chinese Nationalist government and several foreign legations have started fleeing to Chungking from the communist-threatened provisional Nationalist capital of Canton, reports reaching here said today.

Twenty transport planes packed with records and officials, six reportedly assigned to foreign legations, took off from Canton this morning for Chungking and the island fortress of Formosa.

The legislative Yuan adjourned its fall session in an emergency meeting late last night. Some 300 legislators will leave for Formosa tomorrow.

Military reports said a communist column plunging south along the railroad occupied Yingtak virtually without opposition and sent vanguard forces striking to within 50 miles north of Canton.

Canton's defenders hurriedly called two army corps from Hainan island and the southeast coastal port of Swatow to stem the communist onslaught. The reinforcements were due to arrive in Canton today.

Reports from Nationalist sources said nationalist defense before Canton crumbled when Nationalist troops, unpaid since August, went on "strike" and withdrew from the fighting.

Kills Man Who Tried To Take Father's Place

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A 20-year-old Andrew Dina sat in jail today because detectives said he stabbed to death a 59-year-old man who wanted to "take my father's place."

Detective Harold E. Boyett quoted Dina as saying he "saw red" when Paul Pytash, a Hotel Cleveland employe, bragged he was having an affair with Mrs. Mary Dina, 57.

Dina's father, Steven, has been in Cleveland State hospital 11 months.

Boyett said Dina, discharged from the navy Oct. 1 after over three years service, told him he met Pytash in a west side tavern early yesterday. He said Pytash insisted on accompanying him to his mother's home.

Boyett quoted the mother as follows: Dina came into her bedroom with Pytash, snapped on the lights and yelled, "Mom, I brought your boy friend home to you—now I'm going to kill the both of you."

Dina chased the older man down a flight of stairs out into the street, overtook him and plunged a four-inch knife into him nine times, police reported.

Boyett reported Dina returned to his mother's home but an older brother, Steven jr., 28, restrained him from harming her. Steven locked the young veteran out of the house and knocked the knife from his hand with a baseball bat when he smashed a window.

Pytash was pronounced dead on arrival at St. John's hospital.

Women Divided On Question of Getting Handouts From Capital

NEW YORK—Do American housewives want government handouts?

Well—yes and no. The girls are as divided on this question as on any other.

A few days ago I wrote a piece pointing out that legislatures have sadly overlooked the most important figure in our civilization—the housewife.

They fret about the problems of the businessman, set limits to the stint of the laboring man, and vote cash on the barrel head to protect the farmer against rainy days. But for the woman with the mop, the lady of the house, they have voted no 40-hour week, no cash subsidies, no benefit payments, no bonuses for raising the nation's chief crop—children.

Well, should Congress and President Truman set up a new cabinet post—secretary of the home? Should housewives get pensions?

Scores of ladies across the land dropped their dust cloths, sat down and wrote me how they felt. And their answer as to whether the government owed them anything boiled down to this:

1—"Yes, of course."

2.—"No, naturally."

One mother wrote objecting "to the prevailing sense of values which excludes from economic consideration the work of the home woman." Her idea was that mothers mold the character of future citizens, and should be paid in some way by the state for this important function.

Mrs. Sue Persons of Mandan, N. D., thought it might be simpler if women just did more to solve the problems of government and inter-national politics—even against male objections they are "getting too big for their unmentionables

"We have had a lot of experience cleaning up messes before," she added firmly, "and we couldn't make a worse muddle."

An Illinois wife observed:

"The housewife should be considered by the government. Possibly a pension plan or a week's holiday at the government's expense to do a little traveling. Of course I would suggest a set time for the pensions to start—after 25 years of faithful devotion."

★

On the other hand, Mrs. Irene Pilackas of Chicago Heights, Ill., said flatly:

"We absolutely do not want any handouts from Washington.

"We'd be sure to lose not only our independence to clean house how and when we please, want to cook, when to spank, what to say to the better half, but we'd have to pay some jerk 5 per cent for telling us off.

"The woman who has children and a home never mopes or is frustrated We're too busy. We don't want any special recognition. We reap our rewards as we go along."

Mrs. Pilackas said that when her kids and "the ol' man" complimented her on a meal. . . "Why, heck! I glow and beam so that I'd outshine anything buried at Fort Knox.

"You can keep your (government-paid) maids. I want to be able to do for my own—myself."

Walter Winchell

Mention of Umpires Is Enough To Upset Appetite of Rabid Fan

Ford Frick, the National league's top magistrate, and his Better Half (which is not a criticism) occupied the loge Southwest of ours at the Stadium the opening matinee. . . . Mr. Frick made the day merrier by offering the jolly news that Billy Grieve (the umpire who almost cost the Yankees the banner) was not among the referees at the First Game "We rotate them every year, you know," said Mr. Frick. "Grieve worked the Series last time."

"Please!" yelled a fan Not while I'm eating!"

Prof. P. Santora of the N. Y. Mirror put it down best, we think, in a simile: "Colder than an umpire's heart!" A manager once cracked: "Umpires wear masks to keep from biting the players" . Frankie Frisch was once chased off the field for bitterly protesting a decision.

Before Frisch stepped down into the dugout, he turned and thumbed his nose. The Ump rushed over and roared: "Did you thumb your nose at me?" . Dead-panned Frankie: "You made the other decision—make this one."

An umpire was once asked why he stayed on the job, considering all the abuse it invited. "I know it's a tough job," he explained. "But you can't beat the hours."

Benny Goodman's new vocallure, Dolly Houston, was being interviewed. Dolly said that Goodman discovered her in a Boston ninghspot ..."I understand," said the reporter, "that everyone in Boston is very pleasant."

"They were," edited Dolly, a Red Sox fan, "until last weekend."

Someone wondered what'd happen if Stalin dropped an A-Bomb on Yankee Stadium this week.

"Nuthin'," said Jerry Brooks. "It wouldn't change the odds any" . . . Carol Lynne thinks it's only fair that all the television networks are carring the series. 'Baseball," she reminds, "has been carrying television all year!

Chas. Rapp, the agent, called a ticket broker for a pair to "South Pacific." "Give you fifty bucks!" he baited . . . "G-wan!" was the reply. "For fifty bucks I wouldn't even get ya tickets to the Paramount!"

Drama critic G J. Nathan, who became a Yankee fan in his sunset years (once in a book he called baseball fans morons), makes a prediction on the series: "The Yankees in 4 Acts!"

New York cab drivers have their own delicious way of expressing themselves . . . One of them recognized Joan Blondell as she got into his Series-bound hack and said: "Oh, boy! I've had Rita Hayworth, I've had Lana Turner and now — I've HAD you!"

Years ago Brooklyn teams were famed for their clowns. They didn't win any pennants but provided many laughs . . . One of the zaniest Dodgers was Babe Herman. He was also one of the most popular. Herman once asked a sportswriter for a match as he pulled a half-smoked cigar out of his pocket. "Never mind," he gaged. "It's still lighted."

When Rudy York committed a series of fielding fluffs reporter Harry Cross dreamed up this picturesque patter: "York can surround a ball — but he doesn't know how to subdue it."

4 Rightists Elected At UE Meeting

Showdown For Control Looms

A showdown for control of the United Electrical Workers—CIO in District 7 was in the making today after right-wingers of the union voted Joseph Hawkins, president of Local 711, as vice president of the district and three other Mansfield Westinghouse union officials as members of the executive board.

The voting was held during the week end in Columbus.

Claiming control of 337 of the 496 votes in the district the right-wingers also lifted the suspensions of Hawkins, president of Local 711; Robert N. Elsner of Local 801, Dayton, and E. J. Kraft of Local 755, Dayton. The three were suspended on Oct. 4 on charges of "sonspiring to lead a secessionist movement from the UE and for sabotaging collective bargaining between the union and employers under contract to the UE."

Named to the executive board of the district were Mansfielders, Richard Fisher, president of Local 759, Russell Yarman, chief steward of Local 711, and Thomas Flood, fi*nancial* secretary of Local 711.

Elected president of the district was William Snoots of Dayton. He is secretary of the Montgomery Couny CIO council and was a leader in the national fight against the left-wing at Dayton last May.

The left-wing dominated executive board postponed the district meeting last week after suspending the two Dayton union presidents and bringing charges against the Dayton men and Hawkins.

Hawkins said the votes of 18 locals in the district were needed for the election The meeting drew the votes of 24 locals There are 54 locals in the district

Snoots, also, indicated after the election that the intra-union squabble may wind up in the courts. Said he:

"Our battle looks good for us, but it may end up in court. We (the right-wingers) maintain our previous stand that if the UE is disqualified by the CIO or breaks off from the CIO, we, the right wing, will stay in the CIO."

Snoots said last night in Dayton that the district seven headquarters would be moved from Cleveland to Dayton after Nov. 1 because "Cleveland is the stronghold of communist elements within the union."

Left-wingers stayed away from yesterday's meeting District President Markland said the district meeting would be held in Columbus Oct. 30.

Nature's Heat Allows Library To Reopen

The Mansfield Public library reopened this morning after being closed all last week because of lack of heat in the building.

Miss Lois MacKellar, head librarian, said the heat wave had warmed the building sufficiently to open during the day, but the library will close at 6 p m. each day until further notice. The opening hour will be 9 a. m. as usual.

Miss MacKellar said the library will remain open as long as the weather stays warm. The library will go back on its regular schedule including evening hours until 9 p m when the new boiler is installed

The library has been without heat since the old heating plant was torn out during the remodeling now under way at the building. Workmen are now in the process of installing a new boiler, but it is expected to be about a week before it will be ready for use.

Patrons who had books which were due back while the library was closed will not be fined if they return the books this week, Miss MacKellar said.

Although the library was closed all last week, the library staff didn't take a holiday. A workroom on the second floor was heated with electric heaters and the staff worked there.

PROGRESSING RAPIDLY

Meanwhile, the remodeling project begun early in July is progressing rapidly

Workmen are laying bricks for the new rear wall being built to extend stack room space on the main floor and provide for a new county room on what is now the basement level They are nearly up to the roof It is hoped the wall will be finished in another week or 10 days so the extension can be roofed and the temporary wall at the rear of the stack room torn out. Miss MacKellar said

On the basement or street level, the new county room is completed except for some finishing work

Workmen last week finished building the brick walls of the garage for the bookmobile, which is directly behind and connected to the county room.

Plumbing and electrical work is being done on the basement level while other workmen are working in the boiler room

When work downstairs and at the rear of the building is completed, workmen will begin tearing out the bank in front of the library and putting in a new street level entrance.

SUMMER WITH COLOR—

The only really comfortable persons in Mansfield yesterday were the little tots who, attired in the briefest of sun suits, seemed oblivious of the unseasonal heat. However, adults got some relief by taking to the open roads, most of which were a little too crowded to be called open, for long Sunday drives Although breezes were scarce even while driving, the picture-postcard beauty of hills covered with autumn-colored trees of every hue made the outings well worth the effort.

Hail Senator For Interest

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Twenty Ohio farm leaders yesterday gave Senator Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) their support in his campaign for re-election next year.

Benjamin B Brumley of McComb, president of the Ohio Livestock Products association, announced formation of a "farmers-for-Bob Taft" committee, comprised of prominent Ohio agricultural leaders.

In a statement to newsmen, Brumley, a former president for nine years of the National Livestock association, said.

"We intend to organize the farmers for Bob Taft—to keep him in the United States Senate. We recognize that Senator Taft's political philosophy is in the best interests of the farmers of Ohio. . . .His reelection is essential to the American way of life."

Among members of Brumley's group are Louis H. Taber of Columbus; former National Grange master; Paul McNish of Middlefield, former State Grange master; former State Agriculture Directors Frank Farnsworth of Waterville and John T. Brown of Mechanicsburg, and former common pleas Judge G. W. Rittenour of Pike county.

"Throughout his (Taft's) legislative career," said Brumley, "he has shown sympathetic interest in the problems of Ohio farmers. He has fought socialistic trends so adverse to the interest of the independent farmer.

"We intend to organize all the farmers of Ohio."

SIGNIFICANT MOVE

The backing of Taft by farm leaders was regarded as a significant development in the Cincinnatian's campaign for reelection Organized labor has indicated it will work hard to defeat the co-author of the Taft-Hartley labor act.

Yesterday's development was the first announced organized farm backing for Taft by important farm leaders. There has been considerable speculation that should Murray D Lincoln, farm cooperative leader run on the Democratic ticket, he would attract many farm votes.

Taft spent the day quietly at his Cincinnati home. He was to arrive at Washington today for senate-house conferences on the Anderson farm bill. Taft has called the bill a "sensible price support" measure, while criticizing the Brannan plan as not practical.

The Republican senator cancelled scheduled appearances in Stark county, but indicated he might resume his 100 day "report to the people" tour Wednesday, depending on developments in Washington.

Others who endorsed Taft yesterday were George Kryder, McClure Dairy farmer who served in the state legislature with Taft, Harry B. Lee of Fostoria, long identified with farmers' grain cooperatives, John F Cunningham, Columbus, former Dean of the Agricultural College of Ohio State university; D W. Galehouse, Marshallville, a leading producer of hybrid seed corn; D R. Vanatta, Cincinnati; Francis W. Eustis and Walter N. Allen, both of Lebanon; Howard Wells, Wilkesville, John H. Dunlap, jr, Williamsport; A. B. Evans, Cedarville; William Joslin, Sidney; Elmer J Riehl, Canfield; Clay Stackhouse, Wakeman; and Fred Schrock, Columbus

Yankees Sit on Top of Baseball World

New Yorkers Take Series Final, 10-6

By LEO H. PETERSEN, United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK —(UP)— A new Yankee baseball dynasty appeared to be in the making today with Charles Dillon Stengel as the head man.

He came through with a World Series championship in his first year back in the majors and the miracles he performed with his New York Yankees left them sitting on top of the baseball world.

As Manager Burt Shotton of the defeated Brooklyn Dodgers observed:

"Not even the Lord could have done a better job with the Yankees than old Casey."

And that pretty well summed up the 1949 series which came to an end yesterday when the Yankees battered the Dodgers, 10 to 6, at Ebbets field to close out the classic, four games to one.

It was the climax to one of the greatest dramas in baseball history — the saga of a never-say-die bunch of guys who made up in spirit and aggressiveness what they lacked in talent.

Most of the credit, of course, goes to Stengel who took a misfit club, got if off in first place in the American league pennant race and then staved off a stretch run by the Boston Red Sox to win out.

Few thought the Yankees had any chance. To begin with they lost their sparkplug, of the season because of a heel spur. And injury piled on injury after that.

How Stengel kept his team up there will long remain one of the great feats of the game. This was not a Yankee team in the old Yankee tradition. It lacked power; it had no Babe Ruths or Lou Gehrigs. But it did have a bunch of players who out-hustled every other club in the business.

That's why they are world champions today.

Now the Yankee record shows that they have been in 16 World Series and won 12 of them. To each member of this gallant 1949 band, the triumph was worth about $5,800, while each losing Dodger share was about $4,100.

This 1949 club will not be ranked in greatness with those of the Ruth and Gehrig era, but there is one department in which it always will be ranked at the top — spirit.

RELIEFERS DO JOB

In the end the story of the series was told in relief pitching.

The Yankees got it, Brooklyn did not.

Joe Page, the peerless lefthander, was the No. 1 Yankee man in that department, but he had help from Allie Reynolds. That was as it should be, for all season long Page had done more to make Reynolds a winning pitcher than anyone else. He saved game after game for the Cherokee Indian.

Reynolds didn't need his help in the series, for he won his only start, 1 to 0, in that historic opening game. But Reynolds was the only Yankee pitcher who went the distance.

Three times Stengel called on Page and once on Reynolds when his starters faltered, and each time they came through.

Yesterday it was Page again. He came in to keep the game safe for Vic Raschi, the 21-game winning righthander who was pitching his third game in a week. Raschi whipped the Boston Red Sox on the final day of the season a week ago Sunday to give the Yankees the American league pennant; then he lost the second game of the series to Preacher Roe, 1 to 0.

Raschi weakened badly yesterday, but not until his mates scored 10 big runs. When Stengel replaced him with Page, only a four-run lead remained to the Yanks.

Three Dodgers reached base against Page, two by hits and one by a walk. But in the ninth inning, when the game was being finished under lights for the first time in series history, Lefty Joe nailed the championship flag to the mast by striking out three batters.

While Stengel made no mistakes when he was forced to go to his bullpen, Burt Shotton of the Dodgers never found the right man once.

The Dodgers pilot had no man like Page, so the Dodgers once more failed in a bid to win their first series title. They have tried for it four times in what has become known as the modern era of baseball and each time they failed.

Three of those times they faced the Yankees. In 1941, they lost in five games, in 1947 in seven and this year in five again.

BIGGEST GAMBLE.

Shotton, whose series direction was the subject of considerable criticism, took the biggest gamble of his life for the fifth game yesterday and started Rex Barney, a fastball righthander who had spent most of the season in the Brooklyn boss' doghouse. It was taking a big chance, for the Dodgers had to win to stay alive in the series.

But Barney was not equal to the task and, when the Yankees got to him for two runs in the first inning, it was all over but the shouting.

Sharing hero honors with Raschi and Page were Bobby Brown, the golden boy whose bat ruined the Dodgers in the 1947 series, and that Yankee clipper, Joe DiMaggio.

Weakened by a two-weeks illness, the Clipper finally got going yesterday and his home run was one of the big blows in the Yankee victory.

It was proper and fitting that Joe came through in the final game, for he was playing under conditions which would have had most athletes in the hospital.

Galion Shooter Takes Crown In Annual Tourney

MT. GILEAD — C. Pfleiderer of Galion dethroned Mansfield's Leo Arntz as the North Central Ohio Outdoor Rifle champ by winning the sixth annual tournament here yesterday.

Pfleiderer ran up a 795 score with 48x or bullseyes. Arntz also had a 795 but only 43x while W. Rhinehart of Galion had 795-40x. The championship was decided on the composite scores shot in Dewar iron sight and any-sight events.

Duke Hassinger of Mansfield had 400-24x to lead the any sight matches with Pfleiderer second with 399-28x. Arntz had 399-23x.

The two man team title went to H. Ferguson and Arntz, both of whom belong to the Richland Gasco club at whose home range the match was fired. They had 790-43x while C. Pfleiderer teamed with D. Pfleiderer, also of Galion for 789-48x.

Ball Query: Is DiMag Through?

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK — (UP) — There might have been a question today whether Joe DiMaggio had reached the end of the baseball trail—but there was no question that if he had he certainly went out in a blaze of glory.

Gaunt and pale, the Yankee Clipper sweated through the first four games of the world series with one scratch hit in 14 times at bat. He was swinging with bitter futility, his power gone with a virus infection which hadn't been able to keep him out of the chips down classic.

But he finally put his own personal trademark on the fifth game of his eighth series, as the Yankees wrapped it up, by belting a curve ball off Jack Banta far into the left field seats.

And as the Clipper circled the bases with that familiar lope the crowd of 33,000 rose to a man and gave a blood-chilling ovation. This blow didn't decide the fifth and final game. But it was one of the things the customers had come to see.

"No home run I've ever hit has given me more satisfaction," DiMaggio said later, as the Yankees swirled around him in the hot little dressing room in wild celebration.

None had ever given the Yankees more, either.

You saw that as they came to him, one by one, and shook his hand.

Little Joe, the Clipper's eight-year-old son, sat beside him quietly through it all. And big Joe hugged him close as the emotion of his teammates' tributes welled up inside.

Even Commissioner A. B. Chandler, baseball's boss man, came to Joe in that jammed corner and grasped his hand.

"You were great, Joe." Chandler drawled. "Take a good rest because we don't want anything to happen to you. I certainly hope you didn't overtax yourself."

DiMag gave him that piano key grin and shook his head. He couldn't say anything for a few minutes. But little Joe broke the tension.

"Daddy," he whispered, "I lost one of your baseballs."

Di Mag pulled little Joe closer and laughed:

"That's all right, son, I lost one myself today!"

That jolt into the stands may save the clipper a lot of worry this winter as he "rests—and nothing else" in San Francisco. Although he was 18 pounds under weight and his strength was far below par, it had all his old authority.

And Joe will need a bright dream to drive the doubts from his heart. For they'll be there as he looks back on 1949.

This was a rough season for the big Yankee. He missed the first half of the season because of an operation for a heel spur. Then he missed the last two weeks of the season, bedded with a virus infection, but grimly came back for those last two days in which the Yankees knocked the Red Sox out of the American league pennant.

He wasn't his old self—but he was the inspiration.

And he hung on through the series when he hardly had the strength to get the bat around.

"We knew that," Dodger Pee-Wee Reese said with admiration. "That's why he was striking out. But he's a truly great competitor and player."

Yet the question now is whether Joe can come back. The Clipper has been coming apart at the seams too often of late. And he isn't one to hang on the fringes when the game is over.

He'll be back with the Yankees in the spring, naturally. The big question will have to be answered then.

Three State Aces On Injured List; Bucks Fly Home

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Ohio State's football squad landed at Port Columbus aboard a Trans World airline constellation late last night with three top rung players' nursing injuries from Saturday's 13-13 tie with Southern California.

Vic Janowicz, sophomore fullback and first string defensive safety, was on crutches with a bone separation in his foot. Capt. Jack Wilson and end Dick Schnittker had serious knee injuries, Trainer Ernie Biggs reported.

Coach Wes Fesler commented that he was not sure whether he would have his squad out on the practice field today.

The Bucks meet Minnesota in Ohio stadium Saturday in a game expected to go far toward deciding this year's midwestern Rose Bowl representative.

Henrich Gets Kick As Club Takes Series

By TOMMY HENRICH

NEW YORK — (INS) — I've had my biggest thrill in baseball Even if I live to be a million, and stay in the big time all that while, I don't believe anything possibly could happen to equal the kick I've gotten out of the Yankees winning the pennant and then copping the world series in five games.

How did we do it? The answer is that we believed in ourselves. That generated a spirit that would not admit defeat, no matter how many injuries we turned up with.

Remember the wartime song, "We did it before and we can do it again?" That was us this year. Every time the going got tough we remembered how we had come back previously, and so we came back again.

Joe DiMaggio is an example of that spirit. He's the greatest player I ever have known, and he proved it by getting right out of a sick bed and coming onto the field to help us at a time when all of us wanted to have him at our side. Few things I've ever seen did me more good than to watch him belt that homer yesterday.

I wouldn't say that there was any turning point from a morale standpoint, because we always were confident we were going to wind up with the marbles.

Pitching, however, was our big asset. Newcombe and Roe were aces for the Dodgers in the first two games, but we had the depth. Also, in Allie Reynolds and Joe Page, we had relief hurlers such as few clubs ever have had in the gold and glory classic.

Brooklyn fought hard. You can't take that away from Burt Shotton and his fellows. They were a grand crew and fought clean. They kept us hustling.

Are the Dodgers as good as the Red Sox, whom we didn't beat until the last day of the regular season? I've held that question until the last, because I didn't want to sound as if I was crowing.

The answer is, "no." We beat both of them when we had to, but if they met in a series my bet would be on Boston to win.

Stuff on Series. Letter on Picks Of Schoolboy 11's

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

SPORTS ADDENDA gleaned from here and there on the World Series. . . "Golden Boy" Bobby Brown was easily the top hitter with six hits in 12 trips for the Yankees. . . . He scored four runs, drove in five and belted a pair of triples. . . . The Tulane medical student took the starch out of the Dodgers just as he did in 1947 with three pinch hits in three tries. But almost overlooked in the batting plaudits was the .400 mark put together by Gene Woodling, the one-time Mansfield Braves fly-chaser. . . . Gene cracked four hits, including three doubles, in ten trips, and scored four runs. . . . His double output tied with Gerry Coleman's for a series first. . . . Said PeeWee Reese after the game, "It has been a long and tough season, and the World Series was a bitter pill to swallow. I don't like it but I'll live through it, and maybe we'll catch 'em next year." . . . There has been much written throughout the season about the Yankees' injuries. . . . But one fact most of us missed was that DiMaggio, Henrich and Berra, the three big guns, were only in the lineup 17 times together. . . One of the scribes aptly tagged Yank Tommy Byrne "the lefty with million dollar stuff and 10-cent control."

FROM THE MAIL BAG:

Dear Fred:

I am a rabid football fan and a great booster of our Tygers. There is something which has to do with high school football ratings which has been bothering me along with many other fans.

We people would like to know why there isn't a better way to rate our state high school teams. I think credit should be given where it is deserved. As you know AP and INS seem to have a different opinion on who are the better football teams in Ohio. Teams such as Wooster, Circleville and Fremont Ross do not play the brand of football that Mansfield and some of the well-known teams do. So how could they rate teams up around the top which play such soft schedules? Sure they may be undefeated but that doesn't mean much.

I believe it would be a good idea to rate them according to different classes such as AA, A and B. I believe that would make people better understand who are the top teams in the state. We all know who are considered the AA teams in the state.

I wish somehow this could be read by some of the INS sports men. I'm sure everyone would like to see some action taken. All you may be able to do will be appreciated.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM DUSTY.

Well, William, you bring forth some ideas that trouble a lot of us in the sports business. Many of us in the writing field do not place much stock in the polls, but they do provide good "copy" in predominantly high school sports towns such as Mansfield.

As to your article being seen by one of the INS sports men, you can rest assured that it will hit several of them. The Stuffer and other scribes from this area vote in the INS poll just as they vote in the AP poll.

A lot of the voting around the state must be accredited to sentiment. Many writers feel that such schools as Massillon Washington, Canton McKinley, Toledo Waite and Mansfield, for example, should be in there every year if they have a winning team. For most of the scribes know that football in these schools is strictly BIG business.

Then, of course, there are the "homers." Men who put their home town teams high in the poll no matter what. Most of us do not get to see the various teams in action but have to go on comparative scores and what we hear from other writers, officials and coaches. So the polls at best cannot be overly accurate.

Personally, the Stuffer doesn't believe that schools such as the three you named play any softer schedule than, say, Mansfield. They battle opposition in their own class of ball and believe me it can be plenty tough. Actually any school with an unbeaten record should get a lot of acclaim.

Many persons figured Massillon was state champion last year but Washington high did get beaten.

There actually is no yardstick that would say occasionally that one of the so-called "B" teams would not be able to smite down one of your mythical "AA" outfits. We seem to remember years ago of the Praying Colonels from little Centre college tumbling mighty Harvard into defeat.

You say it would be mighty easy to put high school in three classes—we don't believe it. There would have to be too much research. Would you class 'em by the schools which put overemphasis on football, those that put normal emphasis and those who underplay the game. Or would enrollment, higher paid coaches, more coaches, schedules, etc., enter into it.

We have been unable to figure an answer. It's just like all-America teams, whether one prefers blondes or brunettes. Whether surrealistic art is better than the old masters—a matter of taste, no less.

After all, differences of opinions make for good hot stove chatter, and who can say which writer is right. The Stuffer doesn't know—he only calls 'em like he sees 'em.

'Old Clown' Stengel Enjoys Laughs As Manager of Year

BROOKLYN —(P)— Casey Stengel, "the old clown," is enjoying the laughs today instead of providing the laughter.

Stengel, who has more money than he can spend, has realized a life-long ambition—manager of baseball's world champions.

The New York Yankees made old Case's dream come true.

The sturdy Yanks trounced Brooklyn, 10-6, yeserday to take the 1949 world series, four games to one.

Stengel, 58-year-old veteran of the wars, gave all the glory for the winning of baseball's highest honors to the team at the Yanks' victory banquet last night.

The well-beloved manager said in summarizing the hard campaign: "The Yanks were united like our flag."

"They were the most unselfish group ever put together and never sulked at any time," Stengel said. In parting, to the strains of "Yankee Doodle Dandy," Stengel declared, "Truly, they were Yankees."

In the midst of his speech Stengel remarked. "I may stay another year but if I had lost I would have been gone."

Stengel was on the spot when he accepted the helm of the Yanks, who had finished third under popular Bucky Harris in 1948.

The announcement of Stengel's appointment was received with snickers.

"Well, the old clown is back and if nothing else, we'll get some good copy," was the general opinion.

His successful juggling of players was one of the prime factors in the Yanks' 16th pennant and 12th world series triumph.

Casey's on top of the world now and the "clown's" union is minus a member.

Majors Hits Regularly In Air Attack

Mansfield's pro football Rangers scored a pair of touchdowns in the first half and then held on to defeat the Bucyrus Green Hornets, 13 to 12, yesterday afternoon before a disappointing crowd of 1,000 persons at Stadium field.

Except for a brief Hornet flurry in the fourth quarter, the Rangers pushed Bucyrus all over the field to record their third victory in four games in the Ohio Football league. The victory left the Mansfield team tied for second place in the standings.

Summer-like heat conditions turned the ball game into a listless affair at times as the players wilted under the hot sun.

The Rangers frittered away four scoring chances, one of the drives terminated on the 10 when Bucyrus's Jack Shuck stole the ball from Majors. Another was halted by a fumble on the 21 and the Rangers ran out of gas on the 20 and 10 in other drives. As the final gun sounded Pete Bautz had driven three years to the Bucyrus two.

Brightest spot in the Rangers offensive maneuvers was the passing of Ralph Majors. The former Senior high and Indiana U. star tossed 12 passes and completed eight for 127 yards. One of the tosses was a 26-yard payoff heave to End Bill Yosick in the second quarter to cap a 40-yard march.

Later in the same period Majors passed to Eldon Pritchard on the 21 and the ex-Madison end went into the end zone after a pretty piece of open field running. The play covered 44 yards but was called back and Mansfield penalized five yards for off sides.

PASS STARTS IT

A 69-yard march gave the Rangers their first score in the opening period. A 33-yard completion from Majors to Pritchard started the drive and Elroy Jones contributed 19 and 10 on trap plays. The TD came on a lateral from Majors to Jones from the five.

Dave Worner's successful placement try after the second TD actually was the victory margin.

In the fourth Quarter, Majors' passes to Worner and Pritchard moved the oval 55 yards to the ten where to aerials failed. Then Bucyrus got underway with a 90-ward drive which ended in a TD when Smalley connected for 16 yards to Dick Ward. Bucyrus made all but 11 yards on passes as Smalley completed four of six tosses. Ward fielded two of the heaves and Bill Dennison grabbed two.

Yosick returned the following kickoff to the Mansfield 19 and Majors went six yards off tackle. Then Willis Walker tried a jump pass and Dennis of Bucyrus intercepted on the 30 and raced over. McGink missed the placement again.

Most of the game was played in Bucyrus territory as the Hornets had the ball only twice on the Mansfield side of the field. They pulled to the 47 in the second and then penetrated on the long TD drive.

The Massillon Chevrolets continue to lead the Ohio league with four straight wins. Yesterday, Massillon kayoed the Toledo CIO all-stars, 60 to 0. In the other league game, the Akron Bulldogs defeated the Marion Angels, 20 to 0, to remain tied with the Rangers for second place. The fourth place Sandusky Maroons drew a league bye.

Dawson Quits Buffalo Post

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (P) — Leroy (Red) Dawson has resigned as head coach of the Buffalo Bills of the all American football conference, a Buffalo newspaper said today.

Team owner James F. Breuil "requested and accepted" the resignation in Los Angeles, the lowing the Bills' 42-28 defeat yesterday, at the hands of the Los Angeles Dons.

The new coach, according to the story, is Clem Crowe, Bills' line coach during the past four seasons and former head coach at Iowa.

Crowe as a player was one of the "seven mules" at Notre Dame.

BALLET DANCE—PLAY—Like dancers in a ballet, Yankees Phil Ruzzuto and Gerry Coleman hover gracefully about second base in this action seen from a centerfield view during the fourth World Series game at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Rizzuto leaps high to avoid pinch-hitter Billy Cox's flying spikes to make the throw to Henrich at first that nabbed Duke Snider for a double play. Coleman backs up the play (International Soundphoto).

Don Cline Named Captain Of Tyger Team This Week

Quarterback Don Cline will lead the Mansfield Tygers when they face Euclid's unbeaten football aggregation Friday night at Arlin field.

Cline was named today by Coach Augie Morningstar according to his policy of rotating captains for each game. Cline has thrown five touchdown passes in four games.

Practice for the Euclid game was to start after school this afternoon, but Morningstar said that he would have to "take it easy" on four or five members of the team. No serious injuries occurred in last week's victory over Warren but several boys were badly bruised. All are expected to be ready for Friday.

BOOSTER MEETING

The Tyger coach is to discuss the size and capabilities of the Euclid team at the Tyger booster meeting tonight and will also go over last week's Warren game. Pictures of the 28-14 victory at Alliance will be shown.

The meeting is to start at 7:30 p. m. in the high school auditorium and will be followed by a meeting of the Alumni M association.

Indianapolis Wins Little Ball Series

INDIANAPOLIS — (P) — The Indianapolis Indians seldom play in the little world series, but they never lose.

The American association playoff champions won their third little world series by beating the Montreal Royals Saturday night, 12-2.

The victory gave them the little series title, four games to two. It was their first appearance in the series since 1928.

Midget Race Star Fatally Injured

HATFIELD, Pa. — (P) — Jimmy Gibbons, midget auto race driver from Richmond, Va., crashed through a fence and was injured fatally yesterday in the 100-lap national dirt track race at the Hatfield Speedway.

Etzel-Malaska Win Best-Ball Golf Tourney

Mansfield's golf tournament season came to an end yesterday at Possum Run with Ted Etzel and Ray Malaska winning honors with a best-ball of 65.

Paced by Malaska's one under-par 71 individual effort of the duo picked up the Class AA championship.

Ed Blonston fired an even-par 72 but he and Matz Fisher were able to concoct only a 71 best-ball.

Jim Nicita, playing the Class A, also fired an even par score and teamed with Howie Waldman to win that division with a three-under 69 count. Dean and Don Robinson tied for second with 76 and won an extra hole playoff from J. Gilde and Pete Stall.

In Class B, Bill Hahn carded an 80 for medalist, and helped Gene Summers to the best-ball lead with a 75 score. Four teams tied for second with 81, but Nick Algor and Marty Haas won on the second hole of a playoff.

John Sisco and Ralph Stafford led Class C with 89 and were followed by Dick Murphy and Nick Angle, 92. Sisco and Angle both shot 96 scores with Sisco winning in a playoff.

Canton Catholic High School Put On Probation List

COLUMBUS — (INS) — State High School Athletic Commissioner H. W. Emswiler announced today that Canton Central Catholic high school has been placed on probation for violating football training rules.

Emswiler said the school was placed on probation for holding football practice both in the spring and prior to Sept. 1, in violation of a commissioner's office ruling.

Although 10th, 11th and 12th graders participated in Central Catholic's spring drills and only 9th graders in the late summer practice Emswiler said the state rule forbids dual practice of any sort.

He said the school will remain on probation until the end of next year's football season. Any further rule infractions within that time would result in Central Catholic's suspension from the Ohio High School Athletic Association.

Bad Men Grapple

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Bad men Fritz Schnable and Fred Bozik will meet the fair-haired tag team of Doc Meske and Bobby Ford tomorrow night in Cleveland's Central armory. Cyclone Anaya and Frankie Talaer will compete for the junior heavyweight crown on the same card.

Preyer Will Discuss Manager Plan At YW 'Ladies Day Out'

Alvin O. Preyer, chairman of the Citizen's Committee for the Council - Manager Plan, will be the noon - time speaker at the YWCA Tuesday.

Miss Agnes Kessler, executive secretary of the YWCA, said more than 20 women attended the first session of the program last Tuesday, but registration will remain open until this week's meeting.

Miss Kessler also announced a change in instructors for the program's swimming class. John Watkins, YMCA swimming instructor, will teach the class in the YMCA pool, instead of a Red Cross instructor as was previously announced.

Women who plan to attend the second Ladies Day Out session Tuesday should bring materials for millinery and sewing classes.

Miss Kessler said there is a possibility of starting a class in home repairs in cooperation with the YMCA as part of the Ladies Day Out program.

Women interested in such a class should register at the YWCA immediately.

IN MEMORY of Raymond Messer who passed away 3 years ago today, Oct. 10, 1949.

When evening shades are falling
And we sit in quiet, alone,
To our hearts there comes a longing
If he could only come home.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile.
But they little know the heartache
Our smiles hide all the while.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father and Brothers.

Why Sell Your Home?
Why Not Rent It?

Why sell your home? Why not rent it? You'll get a good return that way (at least that's what they tell me when they try to sell me a home).

Right now I can't buy, but we must live in Mansfield . . . but quick . . . my wife, grown daughter and I. We would like a three bedroom house, but might have to settle for two. We would keep it just as nicely as you would.

I'm an executive in a long established, solid company, will not be affected by coal or steel strikes or other layoffs, and I don't expect to be transferred. We are a good risk and can give good references.

You can start making money on me as soon as you like. Write Box 172, News-Journal.

P. S. If you can't help me, maybe you know someone in a position to do so. Tell them, won't you?

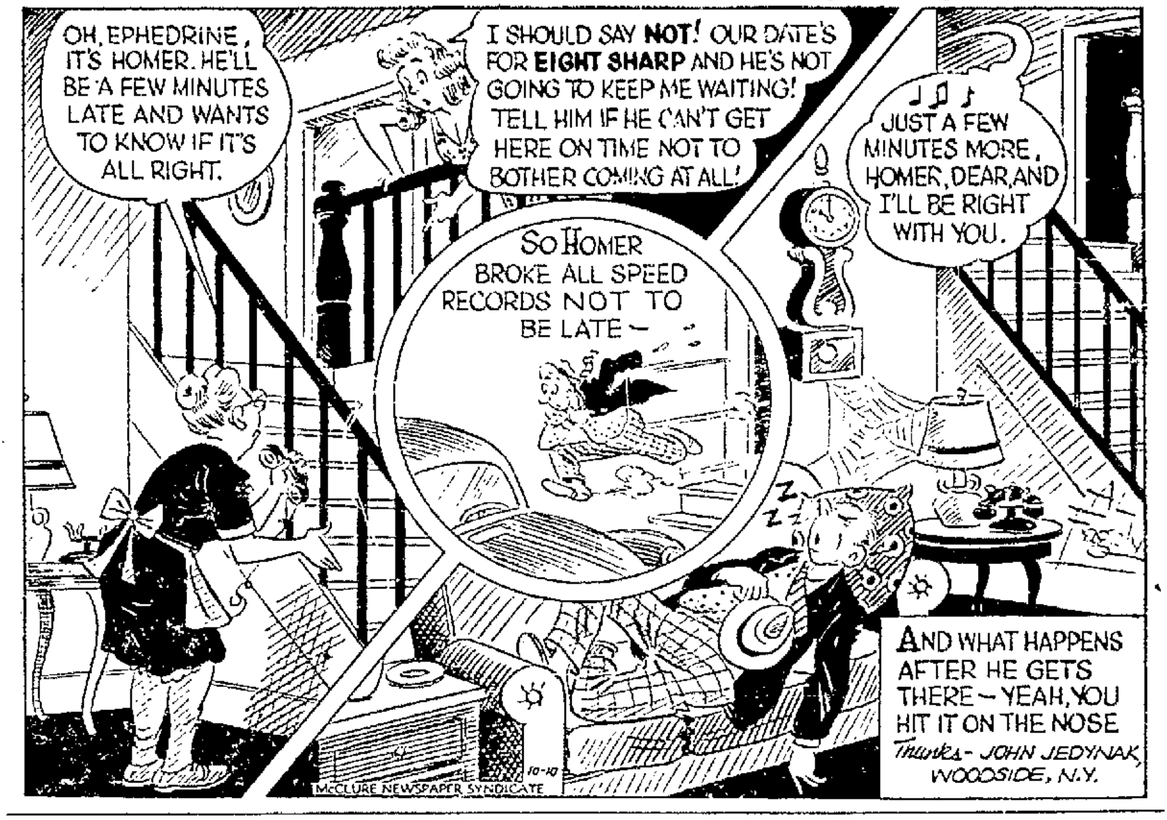
THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By Fagaly and Shorten



OH, EPHEDRINE, IT'S HOMER. HE'LL BE A FEW MINUTES LATE AND WANTS TO KNOW IF IT'S ALL RIGHT.
I SHOULD SAY NOT! OUR DATE'S FOR EIGHT SHARP AND HE'S NOT GOING TO KEEP ME WAITING! TELL HIM IF HE CAN'T GET HERE ON TIME NOT TO BOTHER COMING AT ALL!
SO HOMER BROKE ALL SPEED RECORDS NOT TO BE LATE—
JUST A FEW MINUTES MORE, HOMER, DEAR, AND I'LL BE RIGHT WITH YOU.
AND WHAT HAPPENS AFTER HE GETS THERE—YEAH, YOU HIT IT ON THE NOSE
Thanks—JOHN JEDYNAK, WOODSIDE, N.Y.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3 The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

9th Grade Glee Club Elects

Home Rooms Vie For a Surprise

By BARBARA BROWN

The home room at John Simpson Junior High school with the most perfect attendance points, which are marked on a bulletin board in the hall, will receive a surprise at the end of the semester.

The ninth grade girls glee club has elected: president, Elaine Wakely; vice president, Gretchen Snyder; secretary, Marcia Hines; treasurer, Sandra coffman; and librarian, are working on a Christmas program.

Simpson's cafeteria has a new manager, Mrs. Margo Salsbury.

The boys in the print shop under the direction of Hobart Lime are printing grade card envelopes for the students report cards.

Gilbert Severson's general science classes have been enjoying the presence of six guests. They are a rabbit, a guinea pig, and four hamsters. These were brought by members of the ninth grade general science classes

The monitors, headed by Phil Strine, have finished their bulletin board that tells at a glance who is on duty.

William Warren, from home room 102, is recovering from an appendectomy.

Two Simpson Girl Scouts will serve as ushers at the Community Chest Kick-off Breakfast. They are Martha Robertson and Sheila Constance.

The band has been working hard in preparation to play at the Madison game Oct. 13.

Lt. Robert Garber, of the Mansfield Police department, gave warning to Simpsonites that light crashers and traffic violators must report to the bicycle court for a hearing.

First issue of the John Simpson Times will be out Oct. 14.

The ninth grade Boy's Glee club have named their ensemble, the "Balladeers".

Four seventh graders will help out on stage and projection crew at the Appleseed game. They are Roger Oster, 105, Gordon Hilligoss, 102, on stage, and Robert Komjenovich, 102 and Frank Shambre, 102, on projection.

Admits Fraud

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Williams Burns, 23, of North Braddock, Pa., accused of posing as a polio victim to sell magazines, Saturday pleaded innocent to five charges of larceny by trick. Municipal Judge Wayne Fogle continued his case. Police said Burns had a crippled left arm, but it was not caused by polio.

State Church Control Looms

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — (UP) —The Prague press says the state will take over control of all churches in Czechoslovakia on Nov. 1 under the communist government's church control bill.

The newspaper Svobodne Slovo said the bill which has been bitterly opposed by the Roman Catholics, becomes law that day. It applies to all denominations.

The bill goes before the national assembly when it reconvenes on Oct. 14. Parliamentary committees reportedly will meet Monday to start work on setting up a ministry to govern church affairs.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE® NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

A typical Mansfield family, unlike a typical Mansfield merchant, usually takes its inventory for granted. By inventory, we refer to the family's basic stock of goods. One night last week, the Smith family was occupied as pictured above Both Jean and Jimmy were studying; their basic stock consisted of books, rulers, and pencils.

Mrs. Smith was hemming some dish towels. To do it, she needed material, needle and thread. If the Smiths were to complete the inventory of their house, they'd include all the furniture, kitchen utensils, appliances, clothing, linens, and the hundreds of other items which comprise a family's basic stock.

Mansfield Merchants plan ahead . . . to serve you better

"I want a pair of argyle socks. Get me something in a couple of shades of blue and gray. Something that looks good with a gray suit."

And the salesclerk goes to the shelves, extracts a box, and returns to his customer with three or four pairs of the desired socks.

Amazing? Not at all. It happens every day, but many of us are apt to take our dealer's stock of goods for granted. Actually, the great variety of merchandise which Mansfield merchants offer for sale in the stores comes as a result of our own very exacting demands. Often we know just the merchandise we want in specific size, style, and price range. Sometimes we're just "looking." In either case, the retailer has to satisfy us from his inventory.

For example, a local clothier relates that his inventory of men's hose is about twelve times that of earlier years. Men aren't interested in ANY pair of socks anymore. They want something in wools, cottons or rayons. They want their hose plain, ribbed, in solid colors or patterns. They want anklets, medium or long lengths with or without elastic.

When you complicate this problem by adding suits, coats, dresses, rugs and carpets, food, ironers, radios and ranges, drugs and furniture and hardware—you can see that stocking the basic supply of goods for Mansfield and North Central Ohio families is a mighty big job.

Furthermore, Mansfield merchants know that one of our satisfaction standards is the chance to pick and choose the goods we want. Since most of us pay little or no attention to our own basic stock of goods (at least until we're running low), Mansfield merchants must plan ahead for us. They must control their inventories so we can replenish or add to ours whenever the need arises. If they didn't, the Smiths and other North Central Ohio families would have to take regular inventories of their own stocks if they would have new merchandise when they needed it.

REMEMBER . . .
You can buy it better in Mansfield

'Right To Strike' Has Limits

WHILE a strike which cut off the gas supply of more than 200,000 users in Milwaukee and vicinity one day last week attracted little attention this far away, "on-the-scene" observation of the near-panic which resulted from that surprise move on the part of a CIO union of gas workers strengthens belief that some way should be found—and quickly—to assure against the shut-down of utilities on which the public depends, and which sometimes endanger lives and property.

The Milwaukee shut-off of artificial gas, which supplies cooking and heating facilities in many homes, hotels, restaurants and business places, came without advance notice and an entire day was devoted to spreading the warning that gas lines should be turned off at meters, to avoid danger of explosions or asphyxiation when service was restored.

An immediate effort was made, through a court order, to compel strikers to return to work, but this was ignored and a night session, with the mayor and a federal judge as mediators, was required in settling differences.

Milwaukee is in the midst of a change-over from artificial to natural gas and the union has been urgent in demands for a pension plan to become effective immediately, fearing that numerous jobs will be abolished later.

While other strikes may have serious consequences—as in the steel and coal industries now under way—there are certain lines of employment in which the strike weapon should be absolutely banned, top among these being the ones which jeopardize lives and health, and next in order being those which involve public safety and convenience such as transportation and communication.

The Taft-Hartley law represents an effort of agencies of federal government to restrain powerful leaders of organized labor from acting arbitrarily against the public interest, and present exhibitions of resort to strikes to enforce demands are more likely to bring strengthening than weakening of legal barriers against hurried use of the strike technique rather than awaiting the outcome of friendly negotiations.

Few Communists In This Country

ON THE BASIS of the semi-annual statements of circulation of the Daily Worker and other Communist Party newspapers, required of all publications by the post office department, it has been estimated that the membership of the Communist Party in the United States is now approximately the same as the total membership of various communist movements thirty years ago.

The estimate of "hardly over 40,000" active members is reported in the New York Times, which attributes the figure to students of communism. The circulation of the Daily Worker, the national organ of the party, is put at the level of twenty years ago.

If these estimates are near accuracy, communism in America has slumped considerably since the hey-day of its strength and popularity in the thirties and early forties. This is a cheerful sign for people who try to look at the problem of American communism calmly, with confidence that the good sense of most Americans will ultimately prevail over any tendency to accept the nonsensical double-talk of the communist line.

American communists need to be watched; there's little doubt of that. But apparently they are not yet becoming too numerous for successful watching.

Steel Mills for New England

WILL THERE be steel mills in New England? Now that rich iron deposits have been found in Labrador, at a time when stories are common of the approaching exhaustion of the Mesabi iron range in Minnesota, steel companies are said to be considering the establishment of mills along the Atlantic coast, all the way from Norfolk, Va., to Canada.

Steel mills in New England would be something really new. After that anything might be expected, such as the growing of cotton in Pennsylvania, or a silk industry springing up in Kansas. Those suggestions, too, may be less fantastic than they seem today.

Harry Wade doesn't recall a single golden wedding anniversary in which either of the honored couple "married for money."

GI Education Mix-Up

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — There's been a mix-up over the GI education program.

At the root of it is the belief of the Veterans Administration (VA), which runs the program, that it's being abused.

This is a brief explanation of what's happened.

In 1944 Congress passed a law letting World War II veterans go to school at government expense and get paid while going.

They got this under two main conditions: If they were under 25 and could show the war had interrupted their education.

In 1945 Congress changed the law, wiping out the two limitations mentioned, opening the program to veterans of any age.

Then began a government philosophy that all veterans should have any education they wanted, based on their military service up to four years.

Veterans not only poured into long-established colleges but began taking various kinds of instruction like dancing, mixing drinks, learning to fly, and even how to tell the sex of unborn chicks.

They could take these courses whether or not what they learned could be used later in making a living.

In 1948 the government philosophy changed a bit. In that year Congress tightened up the law a little. As a result—

VA banned—unless a veteran could prove he needed it to make a living—recreational courses like dancing, mixing drinks, and learning to fly. But—

VA let the other courses stand—like college or a trade, such as plumbing—if they'd help a veteran learn to make a living.

He could take such courses and even switch or change them as he wished.

* * *

Restrictions Lifted.

IN AUGUST, 1949 the policy got a little tighter. Congress did it by banning the spending of government money in schools that had been in existence less than one year.

The VA, on its own, tightened up the program even more than the law itself called for in so many words. Why? On the grounds that the program is being abused

VA not only continued to ban purely recreational courses but added something else.

Under this last rule, unless he could show it was really necessary for him a veteran no longer could resume an interrupted course, even in a regular college, or transfer to a new course or a new school, take post-graduate work, or enroll in schools established since 1944.

The VA released this ruling Sept. 15. It raised such a storm of protest in Congress, among veterans and even among some educators, that last week VA wiped out the Sept. 15 order.

Recreational courses still are banned, unless a veteran can show how one of them will help him make a living. But VA now will let a veteran, without proving anything, change courses, resume interrupted ones, and take post-graduate work — provided it's in the same general field.

For example: A veteran taking a bachelor of arts course in college could switch from chemistry to physics without having to prove anything. But a veteran who had been studying law and then wanted to switch to the ministry, which is in a different field, would have to show why.

The program since 1944 has already cost the government between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000. Of the 15,000,000 veterans, most of whom are eligible for it, about 6,500,000 have used the program.

How Teach Religion?

By ELSIE ROBINSON

IF I WERE abandoned on an isolated island, I would wish to have three documents with me. They would be the Twenty-third Psalm, the Sermon on the Mount, and Lincoln's Gettysburg dress.

Mrs. Ernest Wood has asked me to write my views on religion in our schools and this is my answer.

I do not think that any person is truly educated unless these three documents are part of his very bones. They have everything.

Any little child who has watched its father tend sheep by the brook-side can understand the Twenty-third Psalm, yet the most scholarly mystic might brood over it for a lifetime and never exhaust its endless beauty.

It holds all the rich poetry and pagentry of the Hebrew faith. It is a light to any man whatever his religion in his darkest hour. The man who wrote it, King David, had been a reckless, wild character in his youth. He had known life as few men know it. Perhaps that is why, in his old age, he was able to write these immortal, simple words for our guidance.

As for the Semon on the Mount, it holds everything any man needs for a good life. It was said by a Man who was facing death and knew he was facing it. That is why there is nothing but truth in it — He could not lie in an extremity like that.

There is no proof that He ever tried to lie. He lived by the truth as He saw it and He devised the greatest program any man can follow. It is not a program for one people or one religion or one party but for all people whatever their faith or politics.

And lastly I would wish to have with me Lincoln's Gettysburg address. I would need it in my cowardly moments. . .in those times when I am tempted to lie down and whine or go my slipshod way. No braver words were ever spoken and nothing ever needed healing more cleanly than this nation did after the Civil war.

These three documents I would wish to have. As a matter of fact they are always with me. I take the... wherever I go and never once have they failed to give me a stouter heart and a truer vision.

What do I think of religion in schools? I think it is a tragic fact that few people know these three great testaments. They should know them as they know the Oath of Allegiance. Perhaps many of our schools are not a good place to preach religion but I would certainly arrange, if I had my way, that all school children should have this much of the living truth.

We would be a better country if we had it.

Berlin Strange Choice As Capital City

BY J. C. OESTREICHER

HISTORY'S weirdest excuse for a capital city is presented to the world by establishment of an eastern German state and designation of Berlin as its seat of operations.

Choice of this bomb-gutted, rat-infested, cold and dismal metropolis which never was a beauty in its palmiest days, represents nothing more or less than continued Soviet defiance of the western powers.

It means a continued communist show of force in the bewildered and bankrupt town and an obvious hope on the part of the Kremlin that as time goes on the United States, Great Britain and France will tire of their occupation and leave Germany to the Soviets.

The western German government gave proper thought and attention to creature comforts when it set up shop at Bonn.

This magnificent old university city, redolent with the musical memories of Beethoven, escaped virtually unscathed in the war's bombings and the western parliamentarians have peaceful and genteel surroundings. They also have in the immediate vicinity the splendid hotels, villas and castles of the Rhineland. . . . When they tire of legislating, there is beer and boating for all.

In sharp contrast, the communists have established themselves in a city that is an endless succession of horrors.

They might have chosen Leipzig, where the annual industrial fairs used to attract all of Europe, or Dresden, still a jewel of a city in a nation of ruin.

But they chose to stay in Berlin. And by one of fate's gambles, the Soviets drew the worst part of the city when occupational sectors were established at the end of the war.

Their share of the biggest piece of municipal booty ever to fall to conquering armies consists of the main business area, the former government district and the factory jungles of the east end.

Naturally, these three areas bore the brunt of allied war bombardment

In that once fabulous area of busy government buildings and superornate luxury hotels there is not even a skyline left unless the gutted remains of the Kaiserhof and Adlon hotels merit such a designation.

The rebuilding and cleanup characteristic of the American, British and French sectors have not been carried out by the Russians and living conditions are appalling.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gen. Vaughan Goes Treasure Hunting

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In the confidential files of Sen. Clyde Hoey's investigating committee is a report on Gen. Harry Vaughan and his partner, John Maragon, in which they seek sunken treasure at the bottom of the sea. And as usual, they pull a lot of political wires to get the treasure.

This is one part of the Vaughan - Maragon investigation which Senator "Just-the-Usual-Procedure" Hoey wants to suppress. It is also a chapter which President Truman is exerting pressure to hush up, despite the fact that he made his great reputation as a Senate investigator.

Most interesting phase of the secret Vaughan - Maragon treasure hunt is that they cut another company out of the deal—despite the fact that the other company had a prior contract to salvage the ore in the sunken SS Edward Luckenbach.

Vaughan's friends got the contract without competitive bidding. This was the only case in history where a salvage contract was let without competitive bidding, except one — where the commission did not own the cargo.

The SS Luckenbach, sunk in 60 feet of water off Key West, Fla., by a nazi sub in 1942 was carrying a cargo of tin worth more than $2,000,000. The cargo, owned by the U. S. government and partly salvaged, now comes under the Maritime Commission and the U. S. Metals Reserves Corporation, plus a private firm, the Cargo Salvage Corp., of New York. The private firm represents the insurance companies which paid off the government, and therefore have a stake in salvaging the sunken tin.

* * *

Maragon Throws Weight.

BECAUSE of this, the private insurance companies through their agent, the Cargo Salvage Corp., signed a contract Nov. 6, 1947 with Clark Brothers of Palm Beach, Fla., to salvage the cargo of the SS Luckenbach. This contract had no time limitation and is still legally in effect.

However, one year later, the amazing Mr. Maragon and the President's military aide stepped in and pulled the rug right out from under them. Instead they secured a provisional contract to recover the sunken ore for their friends, Robert Stefanich and Zeke Afram of Milwaukee.

General Vaughan used to be a manufacturers' representative in Milwaukee and is a close friend of Harry Hoffman, Milwaukee advertising man. Hoffman is the man who arranged to have the seven deep freezes sent to Mrs. Truman, Vaughan and other bigwigs at the time Maragon was caught smuggling perfume, though the deep freezes were paid for by the perfume company—which, at about that time, purchased four airplanes and three yachts at amazingly low prices from the government.

* * *

After Truman's Vacation.

SHORTLY after President Truman came back from his Key West vacation in December 1948, Robert Stefanich of Milwaukee, representing the Atlantic Marine Salvaging Co., of Milwaukee, dropped in at the Maritime Commission to see if he could salvage the ship which had sunk just 25 miles northwest of Key West. The commission told him to send a diver down to look at the cargo, after which they would talk to him.

In January, 1949, Stefanich came back, said he had not been able to send a diver down, but wanted a contract for salvaging the vessel just the same. His conversation was with Jerry C. Massey, admiralty counsel of the commission, who later reported:

"Since he had not done what he promised, I considered he was wasting my valuable time desperately needed on other Maritime Commission business and making a nuisance of himself. I told him so in so many words.

"Early next morning," continued Massey in his official report, "to my surprise he walked in with John Maragon.

"Maragon stated that he would go into the matter of obtaining a contract for the Atlantic Marine Salvaging Co., and then he would 'report to General Vaughan.'

"In the course of the conversation," Massey continued, "he (Maragon) repeated several times 'I will go back and report to General Vaughan.' I resented this. Maragon gave me the definite impression that he was an employe of General Vaughan. He talked to me in a tone of giving me an order that the contract be given the Atlantic Marine Salvaging Co. I also resented this. The above caused me to express my feelings rather heatedly."

Massey was so upset by Maragon's highhandedness that he discussed the matter with two associates, Joseph Tarian and Charles E. Kauffman, and asked them to sit in as witnesses if Maragon called again. They did so and, after the next meeting, Kauffman wrote a report which stated:

"I asked who he (Maragon) represented and he replied, 'I'm with the General.' This meant nothing to me so I asked what general and he answered, 'General Vaughan.'"

"Before Maragon left he said he was 'with the White House.' It was my assumption that he was a federal employe, probably attached to General Vaughan's staff. As a matter of fact, during our first meeting, Maragon went to my desk, picked up the phone, asked for the White House and spoke to someone there."

* * *

Gen. Vaughan Telephones.

THAT Vaughan was fully aware of Maragon's activity was indicated later by the fact that he called Massey to make sure that his Milwaukee friends were getting the contract.

Vaughan also called another Maritime Commission official named Roger Vaughan, asking him to see Afram and Stefanivich. Roger Vaughan, when queried, said he was no relation to the general.

However, he sided with Maragon in awarding the Luckenbach contract to Vaughan's Milwaukee pals, despite the earlier opposition of Massey.

Maragon's badgering continued, and Massey describes another meeting in March 1949 as follows: "Maragon's manner was extremely officious and again he talked in a tone of giving me an order to award the contract to the Atlantic Marine Salvage Co."

By this time, the Maragon - Vaughan combination had gone over Massey's head to Admiral Smith, chairman of the Maritime Commission and to Commissioner Carson. And, despite previous refusals by lower officials to give the Milwaukee firm a contract, higher-ups in the commission finally yielded. Maragon and Vaughan won out.

Massey has since tried to whitewash this decision. But the interesting fact is that though the political-minded Maritime Commission OK'd the Maragon deal, the private insurance underwriters in New York and the RFC have not yet given their OK.

Apparently the Vaughan-Maragon axis did not have enough drag with them; and it's now a question as to whether the Milwaukee firm with a contract from the Maritime Commission, or Clark Brothers of Palm Beach, with a contract from the insurance companies, have the right to salvage the sunken Luckenbach.

Security Is Fixed Idea

By THOMAS L. STOKES

WASHINGTON — Overwhelming approval by the House of the expanded social security program offers a significant case history of our times.

With all the attendant circumstances it reveals the slowly changing attitude in our nation. This was plain enough in the last election—for those who could see. Since then, however, it has become somewhat obscured by the noisy wolf cry from some quarters about "the welfare state."

Many who have joined in this hue and cry were talking about this bill in their broadsides, among other measures, though they did not specify it. Why they did not identify it by name is explained by what happened in the House.

For, when the prepresentatives of the people were counted, only a baker's dozen—13—voted against the bill that extends coverage to eleven million more persons, increases old-age pensions, and provides compensation for those incapacitated to work through no fault of their own. That included only two Democrats, showing the solidarity of President Truman's party on this issue.

The Senate is sure to complete action in the next session of this Congress, beginning in January, on this keystone in President Truman's welfare program, and thus make it the law of the land.

The overwhelming vote caused surprise in some quarters. It should not have. A current factor in hurrying up House action, it is true, was the issue in the steel strike—the union's demand for the companies to pay the whole cost of a pension plan in that industry.

* * *

Change In Attitude.

IT WAS believed that assurance of a federal law providing bigger old-age benefits and with employes also contributing, as the federal system requires, would minimize drives in other industires for higher benefits paid for by the companies alone which, like that in the steel industry, might precipitate more strikes.

But, aside from this current and minor factor, the real story in the House's overwhelming vote is the general acceptance now of social security among our people including industrial leaders. The House vote dramatized that.

For, as was pointed out in the debate by Rep. John Carroll (D., Colo.), not only the U. S. Chamber of Commerce but the insurance industry advocated an extension program, though the insurance companies were against the increase from $3,000 to $3,600 in the wage base to be used in estimating benefits.

Insurance companies were against the original law in 1935. Why has their position changed?

"Well," explained Rep. Carroll, "they have changed because they discovered that as these millions of Americans were given this limited type of insurance, the people became insurance conscious, and therefore it stimulated private insurance business."

This is exactly what has happened in the case of another reform of recent years which is embraced in the federal government's "yardstick" public power program, as President Roosevelt termed it. And in more effective regulation of private utilities.

The former induced private utilities to expand their own services, which enlarged their own market both for electricity and for accessories. More effective regulation has lowered rates and thus enlarged the volume of electricity sold, all of which has increased revenues of private utilities.

Thoughts About Food

By LOIS ADAMS BYERS

MOST PEOPLE understand you, if you say you're hungry. Everyone knows the satisfaction of hearty food, after hard work or exercise has sharpened the craving. Everyone enjoys mouth-watering kitchen smells and understands the value of a rare tidbit to tempt an invalid's appetite.

Scientists declare that all of us are mal-nourished. Improper feeding, the world over, is causing deterioration of humankind. Our full hospitals and mental asylums are due to long-continued lack.

Depleted soils produce inadequate rations, therefore the place to begin to improve conditions is with natural resources which our fathers and forefathers taught us to waste in prodigal fashion. They theorize that until a person is adequately fed, he cannot love beauty or understand culture.

The yearning for beauty is a natural hunger, too. Some folks crave exquisite textures; some desire, with a great longing, beautiful lines and graceful flow of sculpture; some love colors with a passion that they cannot conceal. Some need flowers for their souls to grow—others need to build arches and angles into architectural patterns. Everyone, I suppose, needs to know how to do something beautifully, for the love of doing it.

It does not matter much what form his expression of beauty takes. A stone wall can express as much as an oil painting. A day laborer can make his work a thing of beauty to delight the beholder. Such labor lifts the level of his whole neighborhood.

Yet, with bodies well-fed and with beautiful surroundings, men are hungry still. There's a spiritual hunger that must have truth to still its cravings.

What is truth? You know what is true for you—I know what is true for me. Truth is unchanging, enduring, absolute. We are individuals and comprehend it according to our respective capacities.

Perhaps what our parents fed—or taught us when we were children determines our understanding of truth. Perhaps our ancestral heritage is a decisive factor. Genes, they say, are why families matter, and "blood does tell." Only, no race, family or creed has a corner on truth . . . all any of us can do is to teach what we know of it to our children and allow them to climb upon our shoulders toward God.

As Cerf Tells It

Bob Sylvester covered the opening of a nobby night club recently — one of the "clip joint" variety. In his report he noted that one patron had discovered a pearl in his oyster—"enabling him to almost break even."

Sylvester also stated that the chanteuse of the evening was so near-sighted they should have changed her theme song to "I've Lost My Glasses: I Wonder Who's Kissing Me Now."

ANN SCHOENMAN WED TO CARL E. TRACEY

Formal Double Ring Ceremony Solemnized Sunday Afternoon at the First Methodist Church

In a lovely gown of white taffeta Miss Wanda Ann Schoenman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Schoenman, 632 Yale Drive, became the bride of Carl E. Tracey, 152 Boughton avenue, Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at the First Methodist church. The custom of open church was observed for the formal double ring ceremony.

Rev. Charles W. Stoneburner officiated for the service solemnized before a background of palms, ferns and two beauty gaskets of gold Quill dahlias and white gladioli. The two altar vases were filled with white glads. In the background were two seven branch candelabra.

Mr. Tracey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Tracey, 34 Green street, Zanesville. Both young people are employes of the Mansfield News - Journal, the bride in the society department as club editor and Mr. Tracey in the composing room.

Miss Schoenman's gown was fashioned with a deep yoke of marquisette which dropped over the shoulders in a portrait style and framing it was a wide bertha in alternate bands of taffeta and marquisette. The bodice was slightly below the waistline and buttoned down the back to the soft bustle. A crushed cumberbund trimmed the waistline. The very full skirt extended into a wide sweeping train. Completing her ensemble was a fingertip imported silk illusion veil which was attached to a Mary of Scot type headpiece of Venice lace.

She carried a cascade arrangement of white pompons and white glad florets with a centerpiece of yellow roses.

Mrs. Willis Naas played the program of nuptial music preceding the ceremony and soloist was James Krause.

Miss Schoenman chose as her attendants, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert M. Schoenman, matron of honor, and her sister, Miss Kay Ellen Schoenman, flower girl. Ushering the guests to their pews were Robert Schoenman, brother of the bride, and Arthur Tracey of Zanesville, brother of the bridegroom. Richard Schwab, a close friend of the couple served as best man.

Mrs. Robert Schoenman wore a deep shade of turquoise taffeta and the little flower girl a lighter shade. Their frocks were fashioned alike with squared necklines and soft draped effect at the bustline. he full circular skirts were cut in pinafore style with full ruffle starting at the front and edging the apron to the back where it finished with small bustle - like pouffs. Both wore small bonnets in matching colors to their gowns. Mrs. Schoenman's was trimmed in a deep rust shade and Miss Schoenman's in a soft autumn yellow.

The matron of honor carried a cascade arrangement of gold colored pompons and the flower girl had a miniature bouquet of yellow pompons.

The bride's mother was attired in a forest green crepe two piece frock with yellow vest beaded jacket and brown accessories. Mrs. Tracey wore a blue crepe dress with black accessories and both had corsages of yellow roses.

Following the service the bridal party received their guests at the rear of the church and later entertained with a reception in the church parlors. A four-tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, centered the long serving table. This was surrounded by maidenhair fern and yellow pompons. Tall lighted white tapers also graced the table. Serving were Mrs. W. W. Wierman of Euclid, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Howard Aughinbaugh of Indianapolis, also an aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Shaeffer of Zanesville, sister of the bridegroom.

When the couple left later in the day for a trip through the Smoky Mountains the bride wore a dark brown gaberdine suit with gold blouse. Her accessories were green and brown ostrich skin. She wore the yellow rosebud corsage from her wedding bouquet.

After Oct. 16 they will be at home at 316 Herman avenue. The bride was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and is an alumnus of Delta Sigma Zeta sorority. Mr. Tracey was graduated from Lash high school, Zanesville.

Guests were present from Meadville, Pa., Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Ind., Euclid, Dresden, Zanesville, Beverly and Hamilton.

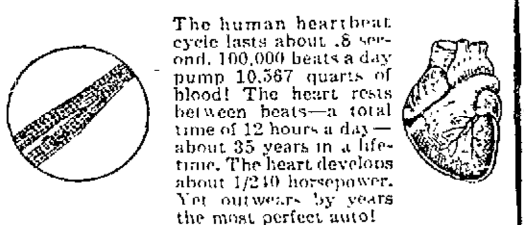
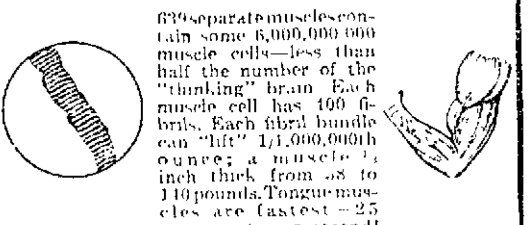
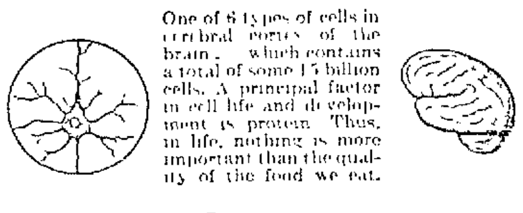
WONDER BREAD IMPROVED 33%
In the Milk Protein Factor To Help Children Grow Bigger and Stronger 8 Ways
"PROTEIN—THE KEY TO LIFE AND GROWTH"
THE FATE OF THESE 4 CELLS IS OFTEN THE FATE OF THE ENTIRE HUMAN BODY!



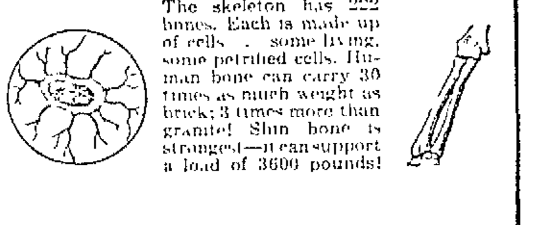
HEART CELL AND HEART
The human heartbeat cycle lasts about .8 second. 100,000 beats a day pump 10,567 quarts of blood! The heart rests between beats—a total time of 12 hours a day—about 35 years in a lifetime. The heart develops about 1/240 horsepower. Yet outwears by years the most perfect auto!



MUSCLE CELL AND MUSCLE
639 separate muscles contain some 6,000,000,000 muscle cells—less than half the number of the "thinking" brain. Each muscle cell has 100 fibrils. Each fibril bundle can "lift" 1/1,000,000th ounce; a muscle ½ inch thick from 58 to 110 pounds. Tongue muscles are fastest—25 movements per second!



BRAIN CELL AND BRAIN
One of 6 types of cells in cerebral cortex of the brain . . which contains a total of some 15 billion cells. A principal factor in cell life and development is protein. Thus, in life, nothing is more important than the quality of the food we eat.



BONE CELL AND BONE
The skeleton has 222 bones. Each is made up of cells . . some living, some petrified cells. Human bone can carry 30 times as much weight as brick; 3 times more than granite! Shin bone is strongest—it can support a load of 3600 pounds!

1 MUSCLE. As Much Protein as a Serving of Roast Sirloin of Beef.
2 BONES & TEETH. As Much Calcium for Bones and Teeth as Contained in a Helping of Cottage Cheese.

Serve Wonder Bread To Help Your Child Grow Bigger and Stronger 8 Ways

Note How Amazing Wonder Bread Compares With Meat, Milk, and Fish In Certain Growth And Energy-Building Contents (as stated in chart)

Without protein no child can grow in body or brain. Growing children need TWICE the protein per pound of body weight as grownups.

These foods are good for protein: Meat, Milk, Fish, Eggs, Nuts. And Wonder Bread.

Penny for penny, Wonder Bread gives your child 46% more body-building protein than the average of meat, milk, fish and eggs.

Good For Energy

Without energy no child can work, study or play. Wonder Bread is a good and substantial energy food.

Then, too, Wonder Bread is more quickly converted into energy than fat. And, of course, is better in protein for child growth.

Helps Build Strong Bodies 8 Ways

The chart shows the 8 body and brain-building properties of Wonder Bread. Serve Wonder Bread together with fruits, vegetables, meat, milk, fish and eggs in a well-balanced diet. Give your child every chance to build body and brain. 8 ounces of Wonder Bread for a growing child cost less than a dime a day. Certainly you can afford Wonder Bread for your child.

Doubly Fresh

Children love Wonder Bread. Plain or toasted. Because Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it; fresh when you eat it. Because slo-baked—13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

Get economical Wonder Bread fresh from your grocer today—you'll be glad you did.

Covering the Younger Set

Just Ask Ann

Miss Ann Schoenman, editor of this column, became the bride of Carl Tracey Sunday afternoon in the First Methodist church. I have been asked to take this column over for a couple of weeks, so here is some of the gossip I've picked up around MHS.

A few of the steadies seen around lately are: Diane Hay[illegible] and Steven Herkel, Nancy [illegible] and Jack H[illegible]; [illegible] and Sally Rosenthaler; Sue Wagner and Darrell Evers; Susan Nichols and [illegible]; [illegible] Holland and Melvin S[illegible]; Dorothy K[illegible] and [illegible]. [illegible] Martha Kinzie and Johnny Sar[illegible]; Judy [illegible] and Sam Barnes; Carolyn Wagner and George Duncan. . . . What's happened between Beverly Scott and Madison's Ed Chetan, no more dates?

* * *

We'd like to take time out to give our "congrats" to Jim Miller, Tom Weaver, Tom Tucker and Eddie Demyan for doing swell jobs as captains of the football team. . . . Back to a few other twosomes, we've seen Nelaura Orr and Jerry Gerrell together quite often lately. . . . Shirley Sziraki's head is still spinning left and right for Howie Tipper. . . . Audrey Pirrgo has to get up a few minutes earlier everyday for school now. It seems Ed Schmidt just can't get to school on time unless Audrey wakes him up each morning with a phone call at 7:30 a. m.

* * *

FLASH! We also heard that Tom Weaver's ambition is to get married. Whom do you have in mind, Tom?

* * *

Meredith Nail and Marilyn Wittmer and a few others were among the "first nighters" in detention hall last week. . . . A few things which have MHS puzzled are: Where does Carolee Hunter pick up all her tricks, especially those during lunch hour? Why is Fannie Angeloff so anxious for the Toledo Waite football game? Where did Alliance find such information as Cy Elsass weighing 210 pounds? Why does Jim "Wimp" Miller call Colleen Keppert "Bugs?" Could it be because of a little grasshopper? Where did Pat Kirkpatrick find the car she is driving around in? Did Ed Dem[illegible] [illegible] to type after [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible]? Who are the two fellows who are keeping Janet Hazen's heart burning? There, try and answer them all.

* * *

We would like to wish Marion Fristel a speedy recovery after an operation at the General hospital.

* * *

To end this week's gossip at MHS we wish that everyone could have seen how lovely the girls looked at the Delta Sigma Zeta sorority tea Sunday afternoon at the Leland hotel. Each and every girl looked like she just stepped out of a fashion magazine.

Miss Hazen Chooses Date Of Wedding

A miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Evelyn Hazen, bride-elect, was given by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Glenn Hazen, 420 Berkshire street, recently.

Twenty-eight guests were present. Out-of-town guests were in attendance from Ashland, [illegible], Galion and Plymouth. Contests were the diversion of the evening. Prizes were won by Mrs. W. R. T[illegible], Miss Mary Jones and Mrs. Maureen Hal[illegible]. These were presented to the honoree.

Attached to each prize was a clue as to the whereabouts of Miss Hazen's gifts. Centering the coffee table was a toy wagon hitched to a star, and containing a miniature bride and bridegroom. On the wagon were white satin streamers with gold lettering, announcing the wedding date, Oct. 29.

Miss Hazen will be married to Richard Parsons at the Evangelical United Brethren church on South Main street. The bride's brother, Rev. Robert Hazen of Arcadia, Indiana, will officiate, assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. J. Shawk.
